

NUMERICAL SIMULATION OF GAS DYNAMICS IN PROBLEMS OF MODERN ASTROPHYSICS

D. V. Bisikalo

National Centre for Physics and Mathematics, Sarov, Russia

An overview of current astrophysics problems that require serious simulation of gas dynamics is presented. Examples of the solutions to the problems associated with the exchange of matter in binary stars and shells of exoplanets are introduced. The work discusses the prospects of development of computational astrophysics.
